Definition of Management

“Management is the process of designing and maintaining an environment in which individuals working together in groups efficiently accomplish selected aims”.

Heinz Weihrich, Mark V Cannice, and Harold Koontz

“ Management is the process of coordinating work activities so that they are completed efficiently and effectively with and through other people”.

Stephen P. Robbins and Mary Coulter

“ Management is a set of activities( planning, organizing, leading, and controlling) directed at an organization’s resources ( human, financial, physical, information) with the aim of achieving organizational goals in an efficient and effective manner”.

Ricky w. Griffin

Organization

Organization is an assemblage of or a group of role related people with a common goal.

- A group of people
- A role relationship
- A common goal

Efficiency : Getting the most output from the least amount of inputs. That means using resources wisely and in a cost effective way.

" Doing things right"

Effectiveness: The achievement of the objectives. " Doing the right things"

Who is manager

Manager is someone who works with and through other people by coordinating their work activities in order to accomplish organizational goals.

Levels of Management

- First line manager
- Middle managers
- Top level managers

1. First line manager: Managers at the lowest level of the organization who manage the work of non managerial employees who are directly involved with the production or creation of the organization's products.

2. Middle manager: Managers between the first line level and the top level of the organization who manage the work of first line managers.

3. Top level managers: Managers at or near the top level of the organization who are responsible for making organization wide decisions and establishing the goals and plans that affect the entire organization.

Functions of Management:

1. Planning
2. Organizing
3. Leading
4. Controlling

Functions of management( Continue)

- 1. Planning: Management function that involves defining goals, establishing strategies for achieving those goals, and developing plans to integrate and coordinate activities.

- 2. Organizing: Management function that involves determining what task are to be done, who is to do them, how the tasks are to be grouped, who reports to whom and where decisions are to be made.

- 3. Leading: Management function that involves motivating subordinates, influencing individuals or teams as they work, selecting the most effective communicating channel and dealing in any way with employee behavior issues.

- 4. Controlling: management function that involves monitoring actual performance, comparing actual to standard, and taking action, if necessary.

Skills of Management

1. Technical skills: Technical skills include knowledge of and proficiency in a certain specialized field, such as engineering, computer s, accounting or manufacturing. These skills are more important at lower levels of management since these managers are dealing directly with employees doing the organization's work.

Technical Skills → Supervisory level.

2. Human skills: Human skills involve the ability to work well with other people both individually and in a group.

Managers with good human skills are able to get the best out of their people. They know how to communicate, motivate, lead and inspire enthusiasm and trust.

Human Skills → Mid levelManager.

3. Conceptual skills: Conceptual skills are the skills managers must have to think and to conceptualize about abstract and complex situations.

Using these skills, managers must be able to see the organization as a whole, understand the relationship among various subunits, and visualize how the organization fits into its broader environment.

Conceptual skills → Top level Manager

Managerial roles( Henri Mintzberg)

1. Interpersonal Roles
   - Figurehead role
   - Leader role
   - Liaison role

2. Informational roles
   - Monitor
   - Disseminator
   - Spokesperson

3. Decisional roles
   - Entrepreneurship
   - Disturbance handler
   - Resource allocator
   - Negotiator roles

1. Interpersonal Roles

Managerial roles that involve people (subordinate/other people) and other duties that are ceremonial and symbolic in nature.

- Figurehead role : Symbolic head; obliged to perform a number of routine duties of a legal or social nature. Example : Greeting visitors, signing legal documents.

- Leader role: Responsible for the motivation of the subordinates, responsible for staffing, training and associated duties.

- Liaison role: Maintains self developed network of outside contacts and informers who provide favors and information.

  Example : acknowledging mail, doing external board work.

2. Informational roles

Managerial roles that involve receiving, collecting, and disseminating information.

- Monitor: Seeks and receives wide variety of internal and external information to develop through understanding of organization and environment. (collection related)
- Disseminator: Transit information received from outsiders or from subordinates to members of the organization.

Example : Holding informational meetings; making calls to relay information.

- Spokesperson: Transits information to outsiders on organization's plans, policies, action, results etc.

Example : Giving information to media

3. Decisional roles

- Entrepreneurship: Searches organizations and its environment for opportunities and initiates “ improvement projects” to bring about changes. Example : organizing strategy and review sessions to develop new programs.

- Disturbance handler: responsible for corrective action when organization faces important, unexpected disturbances.

- Resource allocator: Responsible for the allocation of organizational resources of all kinds ‘ making or approving all significant organizational decisions.’ Example- scheduling.

- Negotiator roles: responsible for representing the organization at major negotiations. Example : participating in union contract negotiation.